Linking people to people – with advanced speech understanding

You don't wake up one morning unable to hear what people are saying. But, like many others, you may have reached a point where you find it difficult to understand everything being said.

Yet, until now, no value-priced hearing aid has ever been designed with a true focus on enabling the understanding of speech.

Belton LINQ changes that.

A clear connection to people

Beltone LINQ brings you together with people. A polished sound, and the ability to focus on the spoken word with no distractions, puts you back in the big picture.

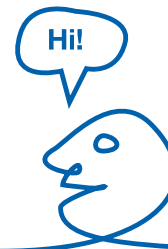

It imitates the way the ear works to shape sound signals providing exceptional clarity.

Always clear: To provide an even clearer sound, Beltone LINQ quickly reduces irrelevant background noise so listening becomes easier and less tiring.

Always focused: Beltone LINQ correctly identifies the environment you're in and zeroes in on the speaker.

What's more, the actual hardware is designed to meet your need for a cosmetically discreet hearing aid that keeps your own voice sounding natural.

So whether you're sitting around a holiday table with family, having a quiet conversation with a spouse, or walking down a crowded street talking to a friend, Beltone LINQ will help you connect to the people in your life.

Connect right from the start

Not only does Beltone LINQ help you connect to the world, it also includes technology that makes it easier for you to connect with your hearing care professional. The embedded database gathers information about your sound environment to help you get a perfect fit.

Try Beltone LINQ

Choose a cosmetically discreet hearing aid designed to help you reconnect to the people around you.

There are a variety of comfortable, cosmetically appealing Beltone LINQ designs. For example, there are behind-the-ear instruments in many colors, with a thin tube solution. Or, you can choose a custom solution molded for a perfect fit.

For more information please ask your hearing care professional.
